WHY I MADE A PLANNED GIFT TO GEORGIA LAW...

Ronald S. Cooper (J.D.'69)

"I owe the law school a substantial debt. It provided me with a first-rate legal education and its moot court program gave me my first exposure to the principles of advocacy. The faculty encouraged me to seek, and helped me obtain, a Fifth Circuit clerkship and later provided my first toehold in Washington, D.C., and the federal government. The contributions I have made, and will continue to make, to the school are only a partial repayment of this debt."

C. Knox Withers (J.D.'05)

"Being a graduate of the University of Georgia School of Law has provided me with a wealth of opportunities. I am the fortunate beneficiary of many great Georgians who have gone before me. Their legacy makes me proud to call Georgia Law home. By making a planned gift to the law school, I am privileged to help ensure that its tradition of excellence endures for future generations."

Individuals who support the University of Georgia School of Law with a planned gift are members of the Verner F. Chaffin Society.

A planned gift can be made in a variety of ways but some of the most common and effective tools include: the assignment of a life insurance policy, a retirement plan asset, a charitable gift annuity or an outright bequest in a will.

Gifts for any amount may be directed to a particular purpose at the School of Law – such as the Law School Fund, endowed scholarships, faculty funds, law library accounts – or left unrestricted to enhance our mission of educating the next generation of lawyers and leaders.
