Message from the Dean

Dear Law School Community,

Each year I look forward to Awards Day as it provides an occasion to celebrate the many accomplishments of our students and faculty. I regret that in these unusual times we are unable to gather together in person to recognize the award winners, but the hard work of those listed on the following pages cannot be overshadowed.

While the world has entered an unprecedented time that has no doubt caused great worry, our student body remains resilient, connected and focused on the task at hand. I am so proud of that hard work and am excited to celebrate the 2020 Awards Day recipients through this virtual forum.

As always, I am grateful to be a part of a community as strong as ours and am cheering for each of you.

Sincerely,

Peter B. “Bo” Rutledge

Under the leadership of Shivani Patel and Mandi Goodman, the Women Law Students Association thrived. They both led initiatives to promote and educate students about female leadership and gender equity in the legal field.

Mandi led in planning the 2019 and 2020 Edith House Lecture, the lecture series highlighting female legal scholars and practitioners. Shivani used an innovative approach to educating her peers through professor round tables, panels, and public service was truly remarkable. I am confident both Shivani and Mandi will continue to lead the way for women lawyers as they enter their legal careers.

Daniel Goeckel
Class of 2020

"The Edward J. Henning Award for Excellence in Dispute Resolution is awarded by the Atlanta Bar Association's Dispute Resolution Section to a law student at each of Georgia's law schools who best exemplifies excellence in dispute resolution. UGA's winner for 2020 is Daniel Goeckel. Daniel is being honored for his work in the Mediation Clinic, where he mediated cases in Athens Clarke County Magistrate Court for three semesters.

Daniel helped spearhead and develop a pilot program to mediate cases in university housing and he has served as a trusted mentor to other clinic students. Ed Henning, a UGA Law graduate (double dawg), is considered one of mediation's founding fathers in Georgia, and Daniel Goeckel is well-deserving of this honor for his commitment to the art and science of dispute resolution."

The Georgia Chapter of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers Custer-Tuggle Award for Excellence in Family Law

This is the twentieth year this Award has been given, and is presented to Miss Reynolds in recognition of her achievements in the study of Family Law. Larry Custer and Joe Tuggle brought great credit to the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers and to the Board itself. They were the types of lawyers who give practitioners in our field a good name.

On behalf of the Georgia Chapter of the Academy, we wish Miss Reynolds a long and successful career."

Ronald Carlson Evidence Advocacy Award

Victoria H. Barbino
Class of 2020

Evidence law dramatically impacts both trials and appeals. Appellate lawyers keenly appreciate the need for a comprehensive evidentiary record when arguing an appeal. At UGA, our appellate program is under the guidance of an outstanding director who understands the value of evidence advocacy in both trials and appeals. This translates to the students through competitions, and our UGA student boards are an essential component.

Here is where the dedicated service of Victoria Barbino comes in. Her work as Chair of the Moot Court board represents the best in student volunteerism. Doubtless her interest in advocacy was spurred by her work as a litigation associate in New York in a class action which complained about lead poisoning of children. Tori's exemplary law school citizenship is also illustrated by her service as President of the Student Bar Association and as a talented member of the Lumpkin Inn of Court.

- Ronald L. Carlson, Fuller E. Callaway Chair of Law Emeritus

Ronald Carlson Rising Advocate Award

This award recognizes a 2L student who exhibits skills in advocacy as well as developing an excellent record of law school citizenship. Cameron Keen displayed a promising future as an advocate during his moot court and closing argument presentations. His contact with the litigation process was enhanced when he served as an intern with U.S. District Judge Lisa Godbey Wood, and will be furthered when he serves as an extern with the Hon. Nels Peterson, Supreme Court of Georgia, commencing in August.

His record of service includes prior service as President of University of Georgia Student Government Association when he was in college. He continued that approach while in law school. Cameron presently serves as Editor-in-Chief of the Georgia Journal of International and Comparative Law.

Gilmore, Jr., Memorial Award for Excellence in the Study of Labor and Employment Law recognizes the student who demonstrates, through their enrollment in and outstanding performance in the Labor and Employment Law curriculum, superior potential as a practitioner or scholar in the field of Labor and Employment Law.

Georgia Municipal Association Municipal Corporations Award

“The study of the municipal law allows practitioners to explore a wide variety of interesting and novel legal topics but often is not as glamorous as some other areas of the law. Today, in the current public health crisis afflicting our entire world, we are seeing local governments have to step up and explore legal issues that are new, unique, and unprecedented. The Georgia Municipal Association sponsors this award because in normal and crisis times, municipal attorneys help keep city government functional and students with an interest in helping society function smoothly should be acknowledged and recognized.”

Charles E. Hicks
Class of 2020

"Charles is the person that gets to know every single person and can always find a way to make their day better. In his last three years at Georgia Law, Charles has advocated for change at the law school and has done so much for diversity and minority interests across the law school. He is truly a great advocate, attorney, person, and an even better friend."

- Shivani Patel, Class of 2020

"From the dean down to every administrative position, no matter how small or out of sight, Charles seems to be on a first name basis with everyone. There hasn't been a time when we have walked to lunch where Charles hasn't greeted someone I have never met before. He brings good humor and happy moments to everyone he interacts with, and is a fine choice for the William K. Meadow Award."

Message from the Associate Deans

Dear Faculty,

Whether it is their first cold call by Professor Burch, first client intake interview with Professor Gabriel, or the legal writing "tip of the day" from Professor Hale, students at UGA Law report high levels of satisfaction with their overall educational experience compared to students at other institutions. Our students recognize that they receive a great legal education and they appreciate the faculty who make that possible. Teaching awards recognize faculty members who challenge and inspire students to grow intellectually, professionally, and ethically.

Faculty are not selected for these awards by accident; recognition by the student body represents the culmination of countless hours of careful preparation, dedicated instruction and supportive mentoring. We join with our students in celebrating these colleagues who have poured themselves into carrying out their calling as legal educators.

Sincerely,

Associate Deans of the Law School

Dan T. Coenen

University Professor &

in Constitutional Law

"The first time I saw Professor Coenen walk into the classroom, I remember being terrified and praying that he would not call on me. However, as the semester continued, I realized that he really cared about each and every one of his students. He challenged us in class to become better attorneys and better people. He reminded us to be good people and treat others with kindness, and he truly wanted us to learn. So many great memories were formed with Professor Coenen...from him having us over to his home so we could all get to know one another and support one another to him writing a poem with all of our names in it for the last day of Contracts. I can't think of a better faculty marshal to represent our class. Thank you for everything. (P.S. Professor Coenen, hoping you find that green tie)"

- Shivani Patel, Class of 2020

"Professor Mayson joined UGA Law as a faculty member at the same time that the Class of 2020 joined UGA Law as students in the fall of 2017. Our class immediately realized that she was a special professor; few possess the combination of professionalism, academic intensity, and genuine care for the success of students that Professor Mayson has constantly exhibited toward us over the past three years. Professor Mayson, thank you for urging all of us toward academic excellence, while setting the highest example of how to conduct yourself as an attorney and a human being. The pedigree and culture of Georgia Law have both been immensely improved by your presence. There is no more deserving recipient of the Class of 2020 Faculty Marshal Award"

When we first started your class, we were bright-eyed 1Ls who knew nothing. By the time we finished, we had all the tools we needed to begin a successful legal career as aspiring lawyers. Thank you for always being available to us. Thank you for the tough love and hard lessons. We are prepared to take on the world ... and it's all thanks to you."

Lonnie T. Brown, Jr.
Gus Cleveland Distinguished
Chair of Legal Ethics and

Meigs Distinguished Teaching
Professor

"Everyday I would walk in to see Professor Brown, with his microphone on, starting the second class was supposed to—never late—and lecturing with unwavering eye contact. Everyday he demanded excellence of us. And everyday, he demanded that same excellence in his own teaching. I recently sat talking with a 1L, 2L, and myself a 3L about Lonnie Brown's courses. What we loved about them, and him, is not the rigor of the course or his passion for the material—it's his pursuit of excellence and that the demands we pursuit it as well."

- Gretchen Edelman, Class of 2020

"Professor Brown's dedication and charismatic teaching abilities have allowed him to create a course that engages students to think critically about ethics in a way that is both entertaining and intriguing. Moreover, Professor Brown serves as a positive example of ethical conduct that all students and practitioners should aspire to emulate. Congratulations, Professor Brown!"

- Justin Van Orsdol, Class of 2020

John C. O'Byrne Memorial Award for Significant Contributions Furthering Student-Faculty Relations

"Sandy Mayson's commitment is best illustrated by the fun and interactive environment she has created at the University of Georgia School of Law. Her unbridled enthusiasm for learning and distinguished expertise bolster her ability as an educator and make Point Allocation for her classes that much more competitive. Besides being a stellar professor, Mayson is an even better human being. She is kind, funny, and passionate, and if more people were like her, the world would be a better place."

- Erin McGonigle Class of 2020

"While I had to wait to take my first class with Professor Mayson until Fall of my 2L year, she had already gained a reputation as an amazing professor—yes, tough, but knowledgeable and always finding fun and interesting ways to convey the material to her students. Let us never forget her interactive Evidence hypos. Professor Mayson's passionate, empathetic, and energetic demeanor is what makes her one of the best professors, and I, for one, am so thankful for her mentorship."

"Nobody dedicates their time to the development of students' practical skills like Professor Morgan. Congratulations!"

- Andrew Klemm, Class of 2020

"Professor Carol Morgan has been such a strong advocate for clinical learning and advancement. Her commitment to students in the corporate counsel arena is unmatched and truly appreciated. Thank you Professor Morgan for all that you have contributed to my peers and I through the years."

- Joy Bonner, Class of 2020

I am so excited and honored that Professor Carol Morgan won the inaugural Eleanor C. Lanier Excellence in Clinical Education Award. I cannot think of a more worthy recipient. She is an excellent and organized communicator and I have learned so much from her. Way to go, students, for recognizing her!

- Eleanor C. Lanier, Associate Dean for Clinical Programs and Experiential Learning Clinical Professor and Director, Mediation Practicum

C. Ronald Ellington Award for Excellence in Teaching

"Caring. Reliable. Respected. It was her inaugural semester as a full-time Professor and our first semester of law school. But, from day one of Criminal Law, Professor Mayson showed Section Z how much she cared about her students' success. Professor Mayson did not just talk about wanting her students to succeed, she showed it, and her actions made her respected amongst the Georgia Law student body."

- Addison Smith, Class of 2020

"Professor Mayson is far too humble to brag on herself, so I'll gladly do it for her. She is an extraordinary professor. She always goes the extra mile to create a fun and engaging classroom environment; there was never a dull day in either of the classes I took with her. She pushes her students to think critically and creatively. Beyond being an extraordinary professor, she is an equally (if not more) extraordinary person. Professor Mayson, I speak for the Class of 2020 when I say that it was an honor and a joy to be taught by you. Thank you for everything you've given us. We'll miss you. And remember: always keep the receipts"
